

Where'd you get all this stuff?

At the syringe service program across town. My doctor told me about that, too.

My doc also tested me for Hep C -- thankfully I was negative.

I didn't know that Hep C could spread so easily between people who are sharing supplies. We gotta protect each other.

Huh. Mine just tells me to quit.

Why don't you go first so I can make sure you're good, then you can watch out for me. If things go wrong you just spray it up my nose.

She offered to help with that, too, if I wanted. But for now she gave me naloxone, the stuff that brings you back if you go out

Cool. Thanks man.
